

It will sound real nice. Here, we give you cash and you can pick

The saving could be over a trillion dollars. billion between 2016 and 2025". That may be an underestimate. would save the biggest American companies. Their answer: $700 New York Times, "The S&P researchers tried to estimate what it employers six times that amount According to an article in the fine per worker. That's chickenfeed. Insurance plans can cost companies that don't give insurance will have to pay a $2,000 offered for decades? Money. The "Affordable Care Act" says big Why would companies drop group insurance that most have in his book "Reinventing American Health Care". nel, a former Obama Administration official, says the same thing lic or private exchanges by 2020." He's not alone. Ezekiel Eman-cent could end their current insurance benefits and move to pub-Michael Thompson of S&P Capital IQ writes, as "many as 90 per-the employers will kick in a share of the cost. employees will be pushed onto the exchanges of Obamacare and plans paid for by a company, city or state will be history. Instead The prediction is that within six years almost all group insurance

The 1% has done this kind of thing to working people once before, with pensions. It used to be that companies would together will seem like common sense to everybody. plans absurdly high. So by 2020 dumping the group plan al-healthy workers. Then they'll make the co-pays on the group move in steps, first starting with new younger and more Most companies won't just drop insurance. They make the accept cheaper plans. plan so the companies are pressing hard to force unions to employer would pay a tax if it pays for such a "luxurious" "Cadillac Tax" on plans that cost $18,000 or more a year. The ance because of Obamacare. One of the parts of the ACA is a Workers have already been feeling the heat on health insur-maybe.

grow bigger and richer and we'll give you bigger raises... better plan. With all the money the company saves we'll retirement, well...you'll just have to pay up the wazoo for a that you have no accident or freak disease. If you're near Take the Bronze Plan if you're young and healthy and gamble out your own insurance. It's freedom. You get to choose.

give you a pension with a certain amount of money or a certain percentage of your final pay. They've got rid of that over the past decades. Instead they give you money for a 401 K for you to invest in the stock market. How has that been working out?

We can thank the top union leaders for this pile of crap. They knew single-payer was essential, but as meek Democratic Party sheep they went with what the Party (and the insurance corporations) wanted.

www.EconomicUprising.com

Kiss Goodbye to Your Group Insurance

EconomicUprising.com

info@EconomicUprising.com